

The following is the concurrent request that successfully validated and moved data from staging into GL_Interface table.

The screenshot shows the Oracle Applications - ebsdb interface. A table lists several concurrent requests. Request 7656080, named 'GL_INTERFACE_LOADER', is highlighted. A red arrow points from this request in the table to its detailed view window. The detailed view shows the request is 'Completed' with a 'Warning' status. It includes fields for Name, Operating Unit, Parameters, Phase, Date Submitted, Date Started, Completion Text, and Language. The 'Schedule Options' section shows 'Run the Job' as 'As Soon As Possible' and 'Priority' as '50'. The 'Upon Completion' section shows 'Layout' as 'Options' and 'Print To' as 'noprint'.

When I query the GL_INTERFACE table you see the rows of data from staging here now.

The screenshot shows a SQL Developer window with a query result for the GL_INTERFACE table. The query is 'select * from GL_INTERFACE;'. The result shows two rows of data. The first row has a status of 'NEW', ledger ID of '(null)', accounting date of '11-AUG-02', currency code of 'USD', date created of '11-AUG-02', created by of '1318 A', actual flag of 'Inventory', user JE category name of 'Other', user JE source name of 'Other', and currency conversion date of '(null)'. The second row has a status of 'NEW', ledger ID of '(null)', accounting date of '17-NOV-16', currency code of 'USD', date created of '24-FEB-25', created by of '1318 A', actual flag of 'Inventory', user JE category name of 'Other', user JE source name of 'Other', and currency conversion date of '(null)'.
